Covid-19: close monitoring of students who are isolated and/or at risk

We are in the process of setting up close monitoring of those of our students who are isolated and/or at risk in the face of the covid-19 epidemic.

If any of the following apply to you, we invite you to contact the Preventive Medicine Unit medecine-preventive@utc.fr:

- you are in a situation of isolation
- you have a chronic medical condition that puts you at a higher risk in relation to covid-19
- you have tested positive for covid-19

It is important to respect the official guidelines:

- Following the recommendations for protecting yourself against the virus.
- Remaining at home, other than when seeing a doctor or doing your shopping.
- Monitoring your health. If you have symptoms that suggest you might have the virus (which can include shortness of breath, a cough, a fever, and aching muscles) you should contact your usual doctor as well as our Preventive Medicine Unit at medecine-preventive@utc.fr, although if symptoms are severe the advice is to call the emergency health response service SAMU (telephone number: 15).

Don’t hesitate to get in touch.

Preventive Medicine Unit

Dr Alice Hoogendoorn-Marichez

General medical practitioner

medecine-preventive@utc.fr

For further information, see the press release from the French government ministry overseeing higher education, research and innovation, and the ministerial order concerning the role of university medical services in relation to covid-19 prevention:

- press release [in French]
- ministerial order [in French]